

First Examinations Will Begin Here Tomorrow Morning

Seven Doctors Will Handle The Registrants In The Jury Rooms On Second Floor Of Court House

EXEMPTION CLAIMS ALREADY PILING UP

The Exemption board for District No. 1 has everything in readiness for the strenuous work of examination of the prospective soldiers from this district for Uncle Sam's new national army and when the clock strikes eight tomorrow morning the grand and traversing jury rooms on the second floor of the court house will be cleared ready for action and the 1917 "Kaiser shooters" to present themselves in response to the draft law's mandate will find seven doctors on the job ready to sound and thump from head to heels in order to search out possible weak spots in the physical and mental make-up of our share of the young men who will be called upon to help make the world safe for Democracy.

Every detail has been attended to with the exception of swearing in R. H. Sommerville, the third member of the board, but this will be attended to before the work of examining begins.

The jury rooms will be about the busiest places in town the coming three days. All physical examinations must be made in the presence of the exemption board.

Clerk Bain informs us that there has already been a very heavy demand for exemption blanks which would seem to indicate that the epidemic of "Id feet" so prevalent in DuBois week may extend across the sin.

DuBois board starts in this pass upon the large number of exemption claims in their hands, ordering to the Courier it will several days to get through the it is of the opinion that an additional thousand names will have to be added before the necessary 199 men are ready.

Historical Exhibits Wanted For Fair

Notify The Progress if You Have Anything of Historical Interest

An Agricultural Exhibit at a county fair is one of the things of greatest import and interest but there is another department that causes every one to "stop and look". We refer to the historical exhibit. There is nothing more interesting than the old time spinning wheel, the old time tallow lamp of our grandfathers and other articles which have performed a wonderful and useful service in the days before invention and ingenuity flooded the world with light and better ways of doing things. Our county is rich in old relics of every nature and the Clearfield County Fair has reserved an unusually large space in the huge new exhibition hall for these things. We want to ask every reader of The Progress to assist the Fair management to get in touch with these things of interest. If you know of anything that has a historical interest, will you not please drop a postcard to The Progress and it will be turned over to the Historical Committee who will look it up and endeavor to have it placed on exhibition. The Fair Association needs the hearty cooperation of every person in the county to make this a success.

GUNNING FOR WOLVES

Bill Holmes and his moving van started out this morning to run the gauntlet of the timber wolves on the Julian mountain. He had a job moving a fluting from Philipsburg to Bellefonte and before leaving armed his two helpers with rifles for the trip across the barrens. He spent two hours practicing rifle shooting this morning before making the start.

A Winburne Miner Killed By Live Wire

Broken Trolley Wire Drops on Mike Hunyadi Sunday Morning

Mike Hunyadi, of Winburne, was instantly killed Sunday morning by coming in contact with a live wire. Hunyadi and several companions were walking along the trolley line when suddenly and without warning one of the high power trolley feed lines broke and one end dropping on Hunyadi electrocuted him.

District Attorney Welch was notified of the happening and sent District Court Officer Stock down today to investigate the happening. Hunyadi was about 45 years of age. His wife died about a year ago and he was in court February 5th last charged with neglecting his four little motherless children. The court sent the little ones to an institution and the father was directed to support them.

School for Soldiers Lesson No. 1

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

Lesson 1 YOUR POST OF HONOR

You are called to serve as a soldier in the National Army, because that is one of your obligations as a citizen of the United States. The citizens of a republic must always be ready in the hour of need to leave their own homes and take up arms in defense of their rights and principles. Otherwise the Republic could not long continue to exist. The men who now enter military service deserve the gratitude and respect of their fellow citizens.

You are doubtless making a heavy sacrifice in order to perform this duty to your country. Hundreds of thousands of other young men and their families are face to face with similar sacrifices. All our citizens will sooner or later be called upon, each to bear his or her share of the burden. Men and women, rich and poor, all alike must do whatever is necessary and must give up whatever is necessary. For no personal interests or feelings can be permitted to stand in the way at a time when the safety and honor of the country are at stake.

As a citizen soldier you are chosen for a post of special distinction. America is justly proud of the soldiers of the past who have won for us the rights today denied and put in serious danger by the high-handed attacks of the German government. America will be no less proud of you, as you fight to uphold those rights.

Your personal responsibility is great. As warfare is today conducted, the individual soldier counts for more than ever before. Your own skill and bravery, no matter how humble your rank, may easily be important factors in deciding whether an engagement is to be won or lost. You can not depend upon anyone else to carry this personal responsibility for you; you must depend upon yourself.

Some American Soldiers

Americans are well-fitted to meet this test. During the Civil War, at the battle of Antietam, the 7th Maine Infantry lay, hugging the ground, under a furious storm of shot and shell. Private Knox, who was a wonderful shot, asked leave to move nearer the enemy. For an hour afterwards his companions heard his rifle crack every few minutes. His commanding officer finally, from curiosity "crept forward to see what he was doing, and found that he had driven every man away from one section of a Confederate battery, tumbling over gunner after gunner as they came forward to fire. "At the end of an hour or so, a piece of shell took off the breech of his pet rifle, and he returned disconsolate; but after a few minutes he gathered three rifles that were left by wounded men and went back again."

In the Confederate armies individual soldiers were no less skillful, cool and brave. On both sides they were Americans.

Here are a few cases quoted from official records. You must read between the lines to get the full benefit of the stories they tell of resourcefulness and courage.

On June 9, 1862, Private John Gray, 5th Ohio Infantry, "mounted on an artillery horse of the enemy and captured a brass 6-pound piece, in the face of the enemy's fire, and brought it to the rear."

On October 12, 1863, Private Michael Dougherty, 13th Pennsylvania Cavalry, "at the head of a detachment of his company, dashed across an open field, exposed to a deadly fire from the enemy, and succeeded in dislodging them from an unoccupied house, which he and his comrades defended for several hours against the enemy from flanking the position of the Union forces."

From May 8 to 11, 1864, Private John B. Lynch, 3d Indiana Cavalry, "carried important dispatches from the President to General Grant, passing through the enemy's country, escaping capture, delivered his messages and returned to Washington with replies thereto."

BULGARIAN KING HAS RULED FOR THIRTY YEARS

Little Kingdom Plays Greater Part In Fortunes of Greater Europe Than Is Generally Understood

PATHWAY TURKEY TO EUROPE

Paris, Aug. 13.—Thirty years ago today Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg arrived in Sofia and the next day he was installed on the throne of Bulgaria. At that time he was practically unknown to the world. Today he is very much in the limelight as an active participant in the war on the side of the Central Powers.

Ferdinand's course of late has not enhanced him in the eyes of his own subjects nor has it been altogether of his colleague in Berlin and Vienna. Already there is considerable speculation in European capitals as to the fate in store for him when peace is finally reached. It is generally conceded that his future depends much upon the fate of the Austrian Empire, into whose keeping he has entrusted his fortunes.

There is a revolutionary minority in Bulgaria, which will grow in importance the more peace is denied the Bulgarian people, and the more the Austrian Empire—which supports the Prussians of the Balkans policy of the despotic Coburg and his crooked and subservient ministers—crumbles.

Much cleverer than the ousted King Constantine of Greece, Czar Ferdinand seeks to make the best of two worlds by clinging to Vienna, where he fled when the Bulgars—after their defeat by the Serbs and Greeks, and the retrocession of part of the Dobruja to Rumania—sought his life, and by disseminating through cunning agents in Switzerland the report that he was anxious to break away from the German alliance.

If, as a result of the war, the Bulgars find that their sacrifices and sufferings have mercy had the purpose of serving the selfish ends of Germany, and have not gained them the territorial ambitions which Ferdinand has promised them, they are likely to make as short work of this autocrat as they did of princes who ruled previously in Bulgaria.

Ferdinand has not added to his reputation as a military leader in the present conflict. Friends and enemies agree that he is a diplomat first and a man of war last. For more than a year he has been trying secret diplomacy with the aim of making a comfortable separate peace, and getting the Allies to recognize enough of his conquest of Macedonia to satisfy his by no means moderate subjects.

The Bulgarian ruler knows that he holds high trumps. If he makes peace and betrays his German, Austrian and Turkish allies, Turkey will cease to have direct communication with Europe. The supply of German shells and German officers will cease, and Turkey will inevitably collapse.

The statesmen and military leaders of Europe have come to regard Ferdinand as an accurate barometer of the war. His policy toward the different alternatives of peace, war or compromise oscillates without ceasing. When the smallest advantage is gained by the Germans, Austrian or Turks, he immediately sends up his terms. If the Entente Allies make a gain he immediately lessens his demands.

Ferdinand's intrigues for peace and treason are believed to be the prime cause for his many mysterious absences from Sofia. When he is away his womenfolk run the country's civil affairs. Crown Prince Boris is always with the army and his brother Cyril is regarded as a man of small ability. As Ferdinand's second wife, Princess Eleonora of Reuss-Strutzh, who was a nurse before her marriage, is nothing but nurse still, the real work has to be done by Ferdinand's eldest daughter, Eudoxia, aged twenty.

Eudoxia is the cleverest member of Ferdinand's family. She manages the Sofia palace, receives minister and envoys and apologizes to them for Ferdinand's mysterious absences. She directs her father's business speculation and his enormous private wealth, and in particular runs his big land development scheme near the Turkish frontier. Eudoxia is lively and pretty, with an ambition, Sofia declares to be married quickly, and cynics add that Ferdinand chose the German side instead of the Allies because Ger-

ALLIED NATIONS WILL REFUSE PASSPORTS

Socialists of U. S., France, Italy and England Not Allowed To Go To Stockholm Peacefest

RUSSIANS MAY ATTEND IT

The allied nations have agreed that no passports shall be issued to Socialists desiring to attend the Socialist conference scheduled for Stockholm, at which peace is to be discussed. Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking in the House of Commons today, announced that the United States, France and Italy have agreed with England that passports permitting attendance at the Stockholm conference be withheld. Invitations to the conference were originally issued by Russia. Premier Kerensky is declared to be opposed to the session but whether passports will be issued to the Russian delegates is not yet clear. The decision of the governments to act in concert in refusing passports will nullify action taken by the French Socialists yesterday in favor of sending ten delegates. Arthur Henderson, who resigned as labor member of the British cabinet Saturday severely arraigned Lloyd George in a statement issued today.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The first step toward a settlement of the Kentucky coal mine strike in which 18,000 miners walked out last Saturday night was announced by the department of labor today. The miners and mine owners have agreed to an informal conference which will take place tomorrow.

DELIVERING MERCHANDISE IS WASTE

Ma Tarbell Scores Housewife For Lazy Habit of Having Everything Delivered

THE MERCHANT IS TO BLAME

By George Martin
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, August 12.—When Miss Ida M. Tarbell lays the charge of intellectual shiftlessness at the door of the American housewife, she points out that it costs her more than $75,000,000 a year to lug home packages for her.

"The greatest immediate war loss of curing this laziness is in the home," said Miss Tarbell today, "with its release 100,000 able bodied men as fighting men at the front."

Pausing just long enough to take a bit of the sting out of her charge, saying she believed all the American housewife needs to cure her is the government's suggestion, Miss Tarbell went on:

"The Commercial Economy Bureau of the Council of National Defense has discovered that the delivery of the housewife's goods is one of the most expensive luxuries we indulge in."

"A world at war cannot tolerate sloth, waste and indulgence."

"On a food bill of twelve and a quarter million dollars in 1916, Washington housewives paid $600,000,000 having the stuff sent home by bread, milk and ice cream cart; the most."

"What is true of Washington is true of every American city, town and village. The board's estimate of the gross delivery expense of retail grocers in the country is $75,000,000 a year. What for? For the hire of men to put up packages, run wagons and trucks, put your things at your door, not once, but often many times a day."

"Housewives visit the stores in cars, carriages or on foot, but they never think of carrying home anything."

"The merchant is partly responsible. His willingness to serve her capricious and irregular buying in one way or another builds up good will. The woman here come to feel that if the yearly burden they will be classed as unsatisfactory customers."

"In our great cities the cost to the department store of delivering packages is from 8 to 25 cents apiece. It is not uncommon for the cost of delivering an article to exceed the cost of the article."

"There are a few towns in the country where the delivery evil has been stamped out. Ann Arbor, Michigan, has had a sensible system such as we all need, for eight years. Formerly they used 70 wagons. Now they use only 18. There is but one delivery a day. Every woman knows what she wants and all that she wants and she gets it on the one delivery. All women could do this."

"There are a few other towns where cooperative delivery has been installed and effected a tremendous saving."

"I am sure each city, each woman will do her share to get this system throughout the country. They will free 100,000 men for useful service when they do."

"A package in the hand will thank be as truly a badge of honor as a Red Cross button on the waist."

MRS. EVANS WINS CUP

The women's golf tournament for the Douglas cup was held during the past week. There being but seven entrants the preliminary round of medal play was dispensed with. KILLED IN GERMAN AIR RAID ON ENGLAND

Twenty-Craft Drop Bombs on South-land, Forty Miles from London

London, Aug. 12.—Twenty-three persons, including nine women and six children, were killed and fifty persons were injured at Southend, in Essex, forty miles east of London, by bombs dropped by about twenty German air raiders today, says an official statement issued tonight.

Considerable damage to property caused at Southend by nearly a dozen bombs dropped upon the town. Men were injured at Rochford, a town, dropped at Margate, the popular seashore resort in Kent, did little damage. The latest statement follows:

Enemy raiders caused considerable damage at Southend, where they dropped about forty bombs. The casualties thus far reported are:

"Killed, eight men, nine women, six children. About fifty people were injured."

"At Rochford two men were injured, but no damage is reported. At Margate four bombs were dropped. One uninhabited house was demolished, but there were no casualties."

An earlier report said: "Our own aircraft were very quickly in the air and they pursued the enemy out to sea."

ACTION PLEASES NORWAY

United States' Decision to Take Over Ships Brings Approval

Christiania, Norway, Aug. 12.—The decision of the United States government to take over ships under construction in American yards elicits favorable comment in the Norwegian press. The newspapers agree it is Norway's interest if the tonnage is under the American flag because taxation then is more favorable than under the Norwegian flag. For several Norwegian ships already have been transferred to American registry.

Norwegian concerns also are establishing branches in the United States and incorporating them there with Americans as directors and it is hoped some of these firms will be the management of newly-built ships.

LOCK HAVEN PREPARES TO ENTERTAIN ANNUAL BUCKTAILS' REUNION

Famous Old Civil War Regiment Will Meet in Clinton County October 12

Lock Haven, Aug. 11.—The Old Bucktails, the famous regiment organized in Pennsylvania during the civil war, and which contained a goodly number of volunteers from this section, are coming back to Lock Haven for their annual reunion.

The date for their reunion is Friday, October 12, and the New Commercial Hotel will be the headquarters of the gallant boys in blue while they are in the city. Ex-Sheriff Lewis Hoover, one of the survivors of the regiment, with the assistance of several members of John S. Bitner post, No. 122, G. A. R., will complete arrangements for the coming of the 30 or 40 remaining members of this once famous and unique body of intrepid fighters in the Civil War.

The Bucktails have met in this city in past years, and met well pleased with the hospitality extended by the people of Lock Haven. On the occasion of their next visit every effort should be put forth to show them a splendid time, so that they will again carry home pleasant memories of Lock Haven and her people.

EAGLES FLOCK TO BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Hundreds of members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, together with all of the national officers of the organization, have arrived in Buffalo to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Aerie.

Present indications are that the attendance will be unusually large and representative. A program of entertainment extending through the entire week has been prepared for the visiting delegates, many of whom are accompanied by their families. Much business relating to the affairs of the order is also to be transacted. Participation by the order in war relief movements will be a subject of discussion. The annual reunion parade to take place Thursday is to take the form of a mammoth demonstration of patriotism.

"CASTLE"

A Blue Ribbon Feature with Peggy Hyland and Sir John Harr

George D'Alroy, of high lineage but a democrat at heart, falls in love with a ball-torn girl against the wishes of his mother, a proud marquise whose obsession is class distinction.

George keeps his marriage to Esther a secret from his mother but confides in his friend, Captain Hawtree.

Upon the eve of an expected heir, D'Alroy is ordered to Africa with his regiment. His mother, hearing the news, hastens to his apartment and finds Esther, but refuses to recognize her as a daughter-in-law. During D'Alroy's absence she endeavors to buy the child but Esther refuses.

D'Alroy is falsely reported killed, but later returns, has a happy reunion with his wife, and when the marquise sees her son alive she receives Esther and the child into her heart, confessing that birth is subservient to blood and love.

It is Valuable to Thrifty Folks

There comes a time in every business when cash is more desirable than profits--when regardless of the selling value of merchandise, it must be converted into cash as rapidly as possible to satisfy the demands of the proprietors. Just now no possible profit that we might make on our brand new, up to the minute stock look so good to us as an immediate supply of cash. We would rather have cash at a loss than to hold this merchandise. To you as a buyer, this means that now is one of the golden opportunities of years, for in

Ten Whirlwind Bargain Days Ending August 25th

We will clean out every item of this season's stock. Not a piece, not a single item is to be excepted—all are to be converted into cash as quickly as possible—for we have determined upon a radical reduction. We have determined upon a sale in which profits will be forgotten; in which wholesale costs will be unconsidered and in which no price slashing that will lead to an immediate conversion of merchandise into cash will be thought too severe.

This is the chance to provide for yourself and family for months to come. This is the time when you can buy for three-fourths, two-thirds or even one-half and less of real value. This is the bargain time thrifty folks who would reduce the high cost of living have been eagerly awaiting.

First Examinations Will Begin Here Tomorrow Morning

Seven Doctors Will Handle The Registrants In The Jury Rooms On Second Floor Of Court House

EXEMPTION CLAIMS ALREADY PILING UP

The Exemption board for District No. 1 has everything in readiness for the strenuous work of examination of the prospective soldiers from this district for Uncle Sam's new national army and when the clock strikes eight tomorrow morning the grand and traversing jury rooms on the second floor of the court house will be cleared ready for action and the 1917 "Kaiser shooters" to present themselves in response to the draft law's mandate will find seven doctors on the job ready to sound and thump from head to heels in order to search out possible weak spots in the physical and mental make-up of our share of the young men who will be called upon to help make the world safe for Democracy.

Every detail has been attended to with the exception of swearing in R. H. Sommerville, the third member of the board, but this will be attended to before the work of examining begins.

The jury rooms will be about the busiest places in town the coming three days. All physical examinations must be made in the presence of the exemption board.

Clerk Bain informs us that there has already been a very heavy demand for exemption blanks which would seem to indicate that the epidemic of "Id feet" so prevalent in DuBois week may extend across the sin.

DuBois board starts in this pass upon the large number of exemption claims in their hands, ordering to the Courier it will several days to get through the it is of the opinion that an additional thousand names will have to be added before the necessary 199 men are ready.

Historical Exhibits Wanted For Fair

Notify The Progress if You Have Anything of Historical Interest

An Agricultural Exhibit at a county fair is one of the things of greatest import and interest but there is another department that causes every one to "stop and look". We refer to the historical exhibit. There is nothing more interesting than the old time spinning wheel, the old time tallow lamp of our grandfathers and other articles which have performed a wonderful and useful service in the days before invention and ingenuity flooded the world with light and better ways of doing things. Our county is rich in old relics of every nature and the Clearfield County Fair has reserved an unusually large space in the huge new exhibition hall for these things. We want to ask every reader of The Progress to assist the Fair management to get in touch with these things of interest. If you know of anything that has a historical interest, will you not please drop a postcard to The Progress and it will be turned over to the Historical Committee who will look it up and endeavor to have it placed on exhibition. The Fair Association needs the hearty cooperation of every person in the county to make this a success.

GUNNING FOR WOLVES

Bill Holmes and his moving van started out this morning to run the gauntlet of the timber wolves on the Julian mountain. He had a job moving a fluting from Philipsburg to Bellefonte and before leaving armed his two helpers with rifles for the trip across the barrens. He spent two hours practicing rifle shooting this morning before making the start.

A Winburne Miner Killed By Live Wire

Broken Trolley Wire Drops on Mike Hunyadi Sunday Morning

Mike Hunyadi, of Winburne, was instantly killed Sunday morning by coming in contact with a live wire. Hunyadi and several companions were walking along the trolley line when suddenly and without warning one of the high power trolley feed lines broke and one end dropping on Hunyadi electrocuted him.

District Attorney Welch was notified of the happening and sent District Court Officer Stock down today to investigate the happening. Hunyadi was about 45 years of age. His wife died about a year ago and he was in court February 5th last charged with neglecting his four little motherless children. The court sent the little ones to an institution and the father was directed to support them.

School for Soldiers Lesson No. 1

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

Lesson 1 YOUR POST OF HONOR

You are called to serve as a soldier in the National Army, because that is one of your obligations as a citizen of the United States. The citizens of a republic must always be ready in the hour of need to leave their own homes and take up arms in defense of their rights and principles. Otherwise the Republic could not long continue to exist. The men who now enter military service deserve the gratitude and respect of their fellow citizens.

You are doubtless making a heavy sacrifice in order to perform this duty to your country. Hundreds of thousands of other young men and their families are face to face with similar sacrifices. All our citizens will sooner or later be called upon, each to bear his or her share of the burden. Men and women, rich and poor, all alike must do whatever is necessary and must give up whatever is necessary. For no personal interests or feelings can be permitted to stand in the way at a time when the safety and honor of the country are at stake.

As a citizen soldier you are chosen for a post of special distinction. America is justly proud of the soldiers of the past who have won for us the rights today denied and put in serious danger by the high-handed attacks of the German government. America will be no less proud of you, as you fight to uphold those rights.

Your personal responsibility is great. As warfare is today conducted, the individual soldier counts for more than ever before. Your own skill and bravery, no matter how humble your rank, may easily be important factors in deciding whether an engagement is to be won or lost. You can not depend upon anyone else to carry this personal responsibility for you; you must depend upon yourself.

Some American Soldiers

Americans are well-fitted to meet this test. During the Civil War, at the battle of Antietam, the 7th Maine Infantry lay, hugging the ground, under a furious storm of shot and shell. Private Knox, who was a wonderful shot, asked leave to move nearer the enemy. For an hour afterwards his companions heard his rifle crack every few minutes. His commanding officer finally, from curiosity "crept forward to see what he was doing, and found that he had driven every man away from one section of a Confederate battery, tumbling over gunner after gunner as they came forward to fire. "At the end of an hour or so, a piece of shell took off the breech of his pet rifle, and he returned disconsolate; but after a few minutes he gathered three rifles that were left by wounded men and went back again."

In the Confederate armies individual soldiers were no less skillful, cool and brave. On both sides they were Americans.

Here are a few cases quoted from official records. You must read between the lines to get the full benefit of the stories they tell of resourcefulness and courage.

On June 9, 1862, Private John Gray, 5th Ohio Infantry, "mounted on an artillery horse of the enemy and captured a brass 6-pound piece, in the face of the enemy's fire, and brought it to the rear."

On October 12, 1863, Private Michael Dougherty, 13th Pennsylvania Cavalry, "at the head of a detachment of his company, dashed across an open field, exposed to a deadly fire from the enemy, and succeeded in dislodging them from an unoccupied house, which he and his comrades defended for several hours against the enemy from flanking the position of the Union forces."

From May 8 to 11, 1864, Private John B. Lynch, 3d Indiana Cavalry, "carried important dispatches from the President to General Grant, passing through the enemy's country, escaping capture, delivered his messages and returned to Washington with replies thereto."

BULGARIAN KING HAS RULED FOR THIRTY YEARS

PATHWAY TURKEY TO EUROPE

Paris, Aug. 13.—Thirty years ago today Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg arrived in Sofia and the next day he was installed on the throne of Bulgaria. At that time he was practically unknown to the world. Today he is very much in the limelight as an active participant in the war on the side of the Central Powers.

Ferdinand's course of late has not enhanced him in the eyes of his own subjects nor has it been altogether of his colleague in Berlin and Vienna. Already there is considerable speculation in European capitals as to the fate in store for him when peace is finally reached. It is generally conceded that his future depends much upon the fate of the Austrian Empire, into whose keeping he has entrusted his fortunes.

There is a revolutionary minority in Bulgaria, which will grow in importance the more peace is denied the Bulgarian people, and the more the Austrian Empire—which supports the Prussians of the Balkans policy of the despotic Coburg and his crooked and subservient ministers—crumbles.

Much cleverer than the ousted King Constantine of Greece, Czar Ferdinand seeks to make the best of two worlds by clinging to Vienna, where he fled when the Bulgars—after their defeat by the Serbs and Greeks, and the retrocession of part of the Dobruja to Rumania—sought his life, and by disseminating through cunning agents in Switzerland the report that he was anxious to break away from the German alliance.

If, as a result of the war, the Bulgars find that their sacrifices and sufferings have mercy had the purpose of serving the selfish ends of Germany, and have not gained them the territorial ambitions which Ferdinand has promised them, they are likely to make as short work of this autocrat as they did of princes who ruled previously in Bulgaria.

Ferdinand has not added to his reputation as a military leader in the present conflict. Friends and enemies agree that he is a diplomat first and a man of war last. For more than a year he has been trying secret diplomacy with the aim of making a comfortable separate peace, and getting the Allies to recognize enough of his conquest of Macedonia to satisfy his by no means moderate subjects.

The Bulgarian ruler knows that he holds high trumps. If he makes peace and betrays his German, Austrian and Turkish allies, Turkey will cease to have direct communication with Europe. The supply of German shells and German officers will cease, and Turkey will inevitably collapse.

The statesmen and military leaders of Europe have come to regard Ferdinand as an accurate barometer of the war. His policy toward the different alternatives of peace, war or compromise oscillates without ceasing. When the smallest advantage is gained by the Germans, Austrian or Turks, he immediately sends up his terms. If the Entente Allies make a gain he immediately lessens his demands.

Ferdinand's intrigues for peace and treason are believed to be the prime cause for his many mysterious absences from Sofia. When he is away his womenfolk run the country's civil affairs. Crown Prince Boris is always with the army and his brother Cyril is regarded as a man of small ability. As Ferdinand's second wife, Princess Eleonora of Reuss-Strucht, who was a nurse before her marriage, is nothing but a nurse still, the real work has to be done by Ferdinand's eldest daughter, Eudoxia, aged twenty.

Eudoxia is the cleverest member of Ferdinand's family. She manages the Sofia palace, receives minister and envoys and apologizes to them for Ferdinand's mysterious absences. She directs her father's business speculation and his enormous private wealth, and in particular runs his big land development scheme near the Turkish frontier. Eudoxia is lively and pretty, with an ambition, Sofia declares to be married quickly, and cynics add that Ferdinand chose the German side instead of the Allies because Ger-

ALLIED NATIONS WILL REFUSE PASSPORTS

Socialists of U. S., France, Italy and England Not Allowed To Go To Stockholm Peacefest

RUSSIANS MAY ATTEND IT

The allied nations have agreed that no passports shall be issued to Socialists desiring to attend the Socialist conference scheduled for Stockholm, at which peace is to be discussed. Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking in the House of Commons today, announced that the United States, France and Italy have agreed with England that passports permitting attendance at the Stockholm conference be withheld. Invitations to the conference were originally issued by Russia. Premier Kerensky is declared to be opposed to the session but whether passports will be issued to the Russian delegates is not yet clear. The decision of the governments to act in concert in refusing passports will nullify action taken by the French Socialists yesterday in favor of sending ten delegates. Arthur Henderson, who resigned as labor member of the British cabinet Saturday severely arraigned Lloyd George in a statement issued today.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The first step toward a settlement of the Kentucky coal mine strike in which 18,000 miners walked out last Saturday night was announced by the department of labor today. The miners and mine owners have agreed to an informal conference which will take place tomorrow.

DELIVERING MERCHANDISE IS WASTE

Ma Tarbell Scores Housewife For Lazy Habit of Having Everything Delivered

THE MERCHANT IS TO BLAME

By George Martin
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, August 12.—When Miss Ida M. Tarbell lays the charge of intellectual shiftlessness at the door of the American housewife, she points out that it costs her more than $75,000,000 a year to lug home packages for her.

"The greatest immediate war loss of curing this laziness is in the home," said Miss Tarbell today, "with its release 100,000 able bodied men as fighting men at the front." Pausing just long enough to throw a bit of the sting out of her charge, saying she believed all the American housewife needs to cure her is the government's suggestion, Miss Tarbell went on:

"The Commercial Economy Bureau of the Council of National Defense has discovered that the delivery of the housewife's goods is one of the most expensive luxuries we indulge in. 'A world at war cannot tolerate sloth, waste and indulgence.'"

"On a food bill of twelve and the quarter million dollars in 1916," Washington housewives paid $66,000,000 having the stuff sent home by bread, milk and ice cream cart; the most.

"What is true of Washington is true of every American city, town and village. The board's estimate of the gross delivery expense of retail grocers in the country is $75,000,000 a year. What for? For the hire of men to put up packages, run wagons and trucks, put your things at your door, not once, but often many times a day.

"Housewives visit the stores in cars, carriages or on foot, but they never think of carrying home anything."

"The merchant is partly responsible. His willingness to serve her capricious and irregular buying in one way or another builds up good will. The woman here come to feel that if the yearly burden they will be classed as unsatisfactory customers."

"In our great cities the cost to the department store of delivering packages is from 8 to 25 cents apiece. It is not uncommon for the cost of delivering an article to exceed the cost of the article."

"There are a few towns in the country where the delivery evil has been stamped out. Ann Arbor, Michigan, has had a sensible system such as we all need, for eight years. Formerly they used 70 wagons. Now they use only 18. There is but one delivery a day. Every woman knows what she wants and all that she wants and she gets it on the one delivery. All women could do this."

"There are a few other towns where cooperative delivery has been installed and effected a tremendous saving. 'I am sure each city, each woman will do her share to get this system throughout the country. They will free 100,000 men for useful service when they do.'

"A package in the hand will tend to be as truly a badge of honor as a Red Cross button on the waist."

MRS. EVANS WINS CUP

The women's golf tournament for the Douglas cup was held during the past week. There being but seven entrants the preliminary round of medal play was dispensed with. The final was played on Saturday morning. In an interesting match Mrs. Evans defeated Mrs. Reeve 4 and 3, and she wins the cup for the second time. The result of the tournament follows:

First Round
Mrs. Reeve defeated Mrs. Babcock.
Mrs. Shillingford defeated Mrs. Philip Reed.
Mrs. Evans defeated Mrs. H. J. Patton (by default).
Mrs. Douglas a bye.
Second Round
Mrs. Reeve defeated Mrs. Shillingford.
Mrs. Evans defeated Mrs. Douglas.
Final
Mrs. Evans defeated Mrs. Reeve.

KILLED IN GERMAN AIR RAID ON ENGLAND

Twenty-Craft Drop Bombs on South-land, Forty Miles from London

London, Aug. 12.—Twenty-three persons, including nine women and six children, were killed and fifty persons were injured at Southend, in Essex, forty miles east of London, by bombs dropped by about twenty German air raiders today, says an official statement issued tonight.

Considerable damage to property caused at Southend by nearly a dozen bombs dropped upon the town. Men were injured at Rochford, a town, dropped at Margate, the popular seashore resort in Kent, did little damage. The latest statement follows:

"Enemy raiders caused considerable damage at Southend, where they dropped about forty bombs. The casualties thus far reported are:

"Killed, eight men, nine women, six children. About fifty people were injured.

"At Rochford two men were injured, but no damage is reported. At Margate four bombs were dropped. One uninhabited house was demolished, but there were no casualties."

An earlier report said: "Our own aircraft were very quickly in the air and they pursued the enemy out to sea."

ACTION PLEASES NORWAY

United States' Decision to Take Over Ships Brings Approval

Christiania, Norway, Aug. 12.—The decision of the United States government to take over ships under construction in American yards elicits favorable comment in the Norwegian press. The newspapers agree it is Norway's interest if the tonnage is under the American flag because taxation then is more favorable than under the Norwegian flag. For several Norwegian ships already have been transferred to American registry.

Norwegian concerns also are establishing branches in the United States and incorporating them there with Americans as directors and it is hoped some of these firms will be the management of newly-built ships.

LOCK HAVEN PREPARES TO ENTERTAIN ANNUAL BUCKTAILS' REUNION

Famous Old Civil War Regiment Will Meet in Clinton County October 12

Lock Haven, Aug. 11.—The Old Bucktails, the famous regiment organized in Pennsylvania during the civil war, and which contained a goodly number of volunteers from this section, are coming back to Lock Haven for their annual reunion.

The date for their reunion is Friday, October 12, and the New Commercial Hotel will be the headquarters of the gallant boys in blue while they are in the city. Ex-Sheriff Lewis Hoover, one of the survivors of the regiment, with the assistance of several members of John S. Bitner post, No. 122, G. A. R., will complete arrangements for the coming of the 30 or 40 remaining members of this once famous and unique body of intrepid fighters in the Civil War.

The Bucktails have met in this city in past years, and were well pleased with the hospitality extended by the people of Lock Haven. On the occasion of their next visit every effort should be put forth to show them a splendid time, so that they will again carry home pleasant memories of Lock Haven and her people.

EAGLES FLOCK TO BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Hundreds of members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, together with all of the national officers of the organization, have arrived in Buffalo to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Aerie.

Present indications are that the attendance will be unusually large and representative. A program of entertainment extending through the entire week has been prepared for the visiting delegates, many of whom are accompanied by their families. Much business relating to the affairs of the order is also to be transacted. Participation by the order in war relief movements will be a subject of discussion. The annual reunion parade to take place Thursday is to take the form of a mammoth demonstration of patriotism.

TO DEVELOP PORT OF MOBILE

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 13.—At a special election in this city today the voters of Mobile are to pass upon a proposal for a $600,000 bond issue for port terminals. If the proposal is acted upon favorably, as there is every indication that it will be, an important step will be taken in the direction of making Mobile one of the leading ports on the Gulf. The War Department has approved the plans submitted by the municipality for the terminal project.

MINNESOTA CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 12.—An army of enthusiastic young Christian Endeavorers, recruited from all sections of Minnesota today invaded this place for the annual convention of their state organization. "CAST"

A Blue Ribbon Feature with Peggy Hyland and Sir John Harr

George D'Alroy, of high lineage but a democrat at heart, falls in love with a ball-toss girl against the wishes of his mother, a proud marquise whose obsession is class distinction.

George keeps his marriage to Esther a secret from his mother but confides in his friend, Captain Hawtree.

Upon the eve of an expected heir, D'Alroy is ordered to Africa with his regiment. His mother, hearing the news, hastens to his apartment and finds Esther, but refuses to recognize her as a daughter-in-law. During D'Alroy's absence she endeavors to buy the child but Esther refuses.

D'Alroy is falsely reported killed, but later returns, has a happy reunion with his wife, and when the marquise sees her son alive she receives Esther and the child into her heart, confessing that birth is subservient to blood and love.

It is Valuable to Thrifty Folks

There comes a time in every business when cash is more desirable than profits—when regardless of the selling value of merchandise, it must be converted into cash as rapidly as possible to satisfy the demands of the proprietors. Just now no possible profit that we might make on our brand new, up to the minute stock look so good to us as an immediate supply of cash. We would rather have cash at a loss than to hold this merchandise. To you as a buyer, this means that now is one of the golden opportunities of years, for in

Ten Whirlwind Bargain Days Ending August 25th

We will clean out every item of this season's stock. Not a piece, not a single item is to be excepted—all are to be converted into cash as quickly as possible—for we have determined upon a radical reduction. We have determined upon a sale in which profits will be forgotten; in which wholesale costs will be unconsidered and in which no price slashing that will lead to an immediate conversion of merchandise into cash will be thought too severe.

This is the chance to provide for yourself and family for months to come. This is the time when you can buy for three-fourths, two-thirds or even one-half and less of real value. This is the bargain time thrifty folks who would reduce the high cost of living have been eagerly awaiting.
